

(Press Release) - Debbie Frisch of HelloBaby introduces a community service for children ages 0 - 3 years and their caregivers.

Debbie Frisch, founder and president of HelloBaby, announces Chicago's newest service to support, empower and inspire families raising young children in under-served neighborhoods.

A new conveniently located and free of charge drop-in space for children from birth to 3 years old and their caregivers.

“Early childhood experiences lay the foundation for who we become”, says Debbie Frisch, founder and president of HelloBaby. “These experiences shape our confidence, emotions, character, relationships, and perceptions of ourselves.”

We believe that all children deserve opportunities for safe, inspired play regardless of their family’s financial situation. In a welcoming space, children can begin to discover and trust their inner voice, abilities, passions and joys. And, the single best way we know to support children is to empower their parents.

We believe in the sanctity of childhood. We also believe it takes a village to care for a child. We know there is a profound lack of affordable services supporting young families in many neighborhoods in Chicago. HelloBaby was founded to help close that gap. By lifting up parents and supporting children during the most developmentally crucial time in their growth, we believe that we can impact lasting and meaningful change.

Giving back makes us happy! We hope that every guest finds a renewed sense of joy in the connections they will deepen with their child (ren) and with each other.

As a good neighbor, we are on a mission to build healthier, safer families. In partnership with our neighbors, we are committed to making real change possible, and hope to inspire others to do the same.

Quote from Debbie: Motherhood is the hardest job around and can be lonely too. Connected mothers support each other and share the joys, challenges and worries of raising children.

There is a social service gap for children in this age demographic who come from low income communities.

All children deserve opportunities for safe, inspiring play regardless of their family's financial situation. It takes a village. Children need to interact with other children. Social skills provide the foundation for success in school and beyond. Connections among mothers ease the burdens and isolation of parenting.

HelloBaby is a non-for-profit organization whose mission is to support, empower and inspire families raising young children in under-served neighborhoods in Chicago. HelloBaby is a referral source for social services and provided in a safe facility.
